TRIALS

TEACHING

There are many parts of our world that are weighing us down creating anxiety, frustration and fear. Economic, social / relational, mental / psychological, physical and spiritual are all filled with peril and pain. Proverbs 16 speaks of evil and death in our broken world that causes our inability to move forward and upward within healthy ways.

REFLECTIONS

What parts of your world are hurting or drowning?

TRUST

TEACHING

In seeking answers – direction we need help. On our own we are inadequate to find solutions, answers, peace etc. Where we look for help will dictate our dependence upon that help. Then are we willing to lean into that help to hear it better and to lean onto that help to survive with it better.

REFLECTIONS

Where do you look for help?

How do you recognize help when it comes?

TRYING

TEACHING

Proverbs 16 reminds us of prudence as an understanding of wisdom of God's light in our world. An understanding on how to live in faith – not just when times are desperate for but more so when our faith is dependent on God. A wisdom to share this understanding to others who are also seeking help for the various issues in their lives.
